Writing

The Internet has changed our lives a lot since its appearance in 1970s. Internet gives us an ability to do a lot of things without the need to go anywhere. We can talk, listen to music, read, share our work, play games together and much much more from the comfort of our own homes. All you need is a computer and an Internet plan and a huge world of possibilities opens to you! But that came with a backlash of too much freedom since people could do and post anything on the Internet, so more and more websites needed to regulate the content posted on their platforms. But that didn't stop bad actors from using Onion (also known as "Darknet") to have full freedom over what they can do on the Internet. Internet made a lot of things easier, unfortunately including illegal ones. Internet gave us a lot of freedom to exchange information, which is great and made information very accessible to everybody. Easier information access means that more people can know more, which can't be bad in any way or form. It also made more people socially anxious due to the anonymity and no need to interact with people, but maybe in the future we will use Internet for everything and social anxiety won't be an issue.

I'd say that changes that Internet made to our society are mostly positive, making life easier for billions of people around the world.
